At this location is a one-and one-half-story side-gabled Craftsman dwelling built ca. 1925. The house has a continuous poured concrete and brick foundation, a gable roof of asphalt shingles with exposed roof rafters, an exterior wall brick chimney and an exterior of weatherboard siding. On the main (E) façade is a partial-width, gable roof porch with original tapered wood columns on tapered brick piers and a square wood baluster railing. The main entrance has an original, three-light glass and wood Craftsman style door. Windows are original, three-over-one vertical-light double hung wood sash with wood surrounds and wood shutters on the main facade. On the first floor of the north and south facades are shed roof bays each with a paired set of three-over-one vertical-light double hung wood sash windows. Above these projecting shed roof bays are small wood bay windows with three, one-over-one double hung wood sash windows beneath which is band of milled wood scalloping. At the eaves are knee brace brackets. On the main façade is a large gable dormer with a triple set of three-over-one vertical-light double hung wood sash windows. A wood beltcourse surrounds the dwelling dividing the weatherboard from the brick foundation.

Off the northwest corner of the dwelling is an original, single-bay, frame garage with an exterior of weatherboard siding, a front gable roof of asphalt shingles and an original wood panel overhead track door. Contributing
